Ulster Farmers Resume Milk Shipments; Price Parley Held at Syracuse

Unclassified Milk Price Pact for $2.15 Brings Activity to Creameries Once More

New Price Due

Syracuse Conference May Bring New Price Under Federal Order

Farmers of Ulster county, who had been on strike for more than a week in sympathy with a statewide unionized move for a higher milk price, resumed shipments of milk this morning following announcement at a meeting in Utica that a price of $2.15 will be paid for unclassified milk.

Shipments today were reported normal in the various creameries and the farmers appeared generally satisfied that they had won a victory and have a guaranteed price to tide them over until prices are more definitely set under terms of the federal marketing order.

A new price is expected to be set under the federal order following a hearing scheduled to open at Syracuse today, and it is expected that when this price goes into effect it will supersede that set yesterday at Utica, when members of the Dairy Farmers' Union and dealers of the state agreed upon the compromise price of $2.15 a hundred.

Not Effective Immediately
Provisions of the marketing order, it is expected, will not go into effect immediately after the Syracuse meeting and the farmers feel assured of the price agreed upon yesterday until the federal order becomes effective.

Terms of the marketing order, it is expected, will bring a price of $2.82 a hundred for No. 1 milk, which should bring a higher minimum price under the blending and classifying system.

It is the aim of the meeting at Syracuse today to bring a higher price to the farmers under the federal marketing order because of conditions brought on by the drought this summer. The current price under the order is $2.25 a hundred on No. 1 milk, but the farmers, who have been on strike, contended that this price was greatly reduced through the classification system.

The July price paid to farmers because of this system of classifying milk, they said, was $1.36 a hundred. This was considered too far below the $2.25 established by the federal order for No. 1 milk.

Minimum Should Do
The minimum price should be satisfactory, one dairy farmer said this morning, if the price of $2.82 is established for No. 1 milk under terms of the marketing order, but those who were on strike feel they have done the right thing in securing a guaranteed price of $2.15 on unclassified milk until the amended federal order becomes effective.

A price of $2.35 a hundred was sought by the unionized faction during the strike, but most of the farmers at the meeting yesterday in Utica had apparently come prepared to accept the compromise price of $2.15.

Rousing Good Time Enjoyed at County Fair by Thousands

Biggest and Most Largely Attended Field Day at Forsyth Park Since Affairs Began

It seems to be generally conceded that the Ulster County Fair and Farmers Field Day, held at Forsyth Park Wednesday, was by far the most successful and most largely attended since the event was transferred to Kingston and became a one-day fair.

Since there was no admission charge accurate attendance figures could not be obtained, but estimates run from 5,000 to 7,000, with General Chairman Albert Kurdt inclined toward the latter figure. One indication was the large number of automobiles, perhaps as many as a thousand, which completely filled the upper diamond lot at the park, utilized much of the tennis court section and along Lucas Avenue and adjoining streets.

762 See Seals
One of the few attractions for which admission was charged was the hourly exhibitions by Huling's seals and 762 persons paid to see these clever animals go through their paces.

Exhibits in the various departments were largely in excess of last year. Thus while in 1938 there was a total of 135 exhibitors in the Farm and Home Bureau, taken together, this year the total was 261 separate exhibitors. Of this number 85 entered exhibits in the Farm Bureau department and 176 in the Home Bureau department.

There were twice as many horses entered this year as last, over 115 head of cattle, poultry entries were way in excess of any show yet held here and the same was true of fruit, judges in this department being still hard at work long after 6 o'clock last night.

Poultry Exhibits

The poultry exhibits filled all the exhibition cages and it was found necessary to leave some 30 exhibits in the coops in which they arrived. Sweepstakes winners in this department included: Best pair, Harold Osterhout, New Paltz; best young pen, Frank Van Deusen, Tilton; best old pen, William L. Mehrman, Saugerties. There were about 450 individual birds entered, a 50 per cent increase over last year.

Largest exhibitors in the big fruit display were M. G. Hurd, Clintondale; J. H. Clarke & Son, Milton; Fred Tice and Joseph Janzen, New Paltz. Other fruit exhibitors included L. Altizio, Highland; Harry Elmendorf, Fort Even; Louis Ansell, Highland; Russell Minard, Clintondale; Eber Coy, Ardonia; Fred W. Kukuk, Flatbush.

Lower Fire Rates May Be Effective Soon Within City

Engineers Will Make Local Survey in Order to Determine What Shall Be Base Rate

Better Fire Aid

Application Based Upon Improvements Made to Fire Department

Lower fire insurance rates may be placed in effect in Kingston as the result of the application made by Mayor C. J. Heiselman to the New York Fire Insurance Rating Organization asking for a reduction in the base rate for fire insurance here.

George W. Booth, chief engineer of the National Board of Fire Underwriters of New York city, has written the mayor that it was planned to send a party of engineers to Kingston the latter part of September to make a survey of the improvements to the fire department which the mayor had based his application for a lower base rate.

On August 16, Mayor Heiselman wrote the New York Fire Insurance Rating Organization in Syracuse. His communication read as follows:

"I hereby make application for a reduction in the base rate for fire insurance in the City of Kingston because the following improvements have been made in the fire detecting and fighting forces since the last reduction was made in the city's base rate:

(1) A new and modern Mack fire truck, with a rated pumping capacity of 1,250 gals. per minute has been purchased and installed in the Central Fire Station, which has greatly increased the effectiveness of the Fire Department.

(2) A flood lighting system, with 2,500-watt floodlights and 250-watt spotlights, has been purchased, with its own generator, and is mounted on a truck provided for that purpose. This greatly facilitates fighting night fires.

(3) A new Gamewell fire alarm system has been installed; old type alarm boxes have been replaced with modern non-interfering, succession type boxes with quick acting door. The 4-inch underground cable has been replaced with new 10 and 20 wire cable. Punch registers have replaced indicators. Two-second time has been speeded up to 4-second time. These changes increased greatly the reliability and speed of the fire alarm system.

(4) Four radio cars, equipped with two-way radio, have been installed by the police department and are constantly cruising throughout the entire city, thereby providing a constant fire patrol in many parts of the city never before covered by police protection.

(5) The Water Department has greatly improved fire protection by the installation of a one-million gallon standpipe within the city limits, with its flow line at the same elevation as the equalizing reservoir. Duplicate electricity driven and an electrically operated valve, both with automatic control, are provided to maintain a full standpipe at all times of demand. A 20-inch cement-lined pipe 2,600 ft. long connects the standpipe to the 16-inch main on Washington avenue, which was installed in 1926.

(6) The following additional water mains have been installed: 54,000 ft. 6 in. 32,000 ft. 8 in. 2,600 ft. 20 in.

The following 4 in. pipe has been superseded: 45,000 ft.

I hereby request that you investigate this application at the earliest possible date, in order that the reduction in rate may become effective and the property owners may have the benefit as soon as possible.

Very truly yours,
C. J. Heiselman
MAYOR

Replies to Mayor
In reply to the mayor's communication, Manager Lawrence Daw wrote under date of August 17, as follows:

"We are in receipt of your application of August 16 which is in accordance with our previous correspondence in the latter part of 1938.

We are referring it to the National Board of Fire Underwriters with the request that they make a reinspection and checkup on changes and advise us of their findings in due course."

Message Sent to King Asks Specific Formula

Chief Executive Tells Victor Emanuel That Any Such Action Would Bring Earnest Sympathy of This Nation

Washington, Aug. 24 (AP).—President Roosevelt renewed today his efforts to avert a European war, by appealing to King Victor Emanuel of Italy "to formulate proposals for a specific solution of the present crisis."

The president sent word to the king that if the Italian government could do so, "you are assured of the earnest sympathy of the United States."

Ambassador William Phillips, on arrangements made by Mussolini and Foreign Minister Count Ciano, had an audience with King Vittorio Emanuele and presented the President's message orally at 2 o'clock Italian time (8 a. m., E. S. T.).

The text of the communication then was made public here by Secretary Hull as the President himself hurried back to Washington for conferences with his advisers on foreign affairs.

The President told the king: "It is my belief and that of the American people that your majesty and your majesty's government can greatly influence the averting of an outbreak of war."

All Nations Would Suffer
"Any general war would cause to suffer all nations whether beligerent or neutral, whether victors or vanquished, and would clearly bring devastation to the peoples and perhaps to the governments of some nations most directly concerned."

This was the second appeal addressed by this government to Italy in four months. The first was made by Secretary Hull, on behalf of the President, to Mussolini, April 14, at the time that the President sent his appeal to Hitler.

Hull said today he did not recall that any reply had even been received to the message to Mussolini.

As President Roosevelt sped back to the capital, a high official said today the only step left open for the United States in the European crisis was a reiteration of its desire for peace.

"No Way Out"
He said he saw "no way out" of the situation, which might come to a head at any time. This was reliably reported to be the tenor of the information which Secretary of State Hull and Undersecretary Welles, had for the President on his return from a North Atlantic cruise this afternoon.

Hull, who returned yesterday tanned and rested from his own vacation, decided to go to Union station to give Mr. Roosevelt personally the latest dispatches from Europe.

Whether the President might issue a statement of the administration's views or call Congress into special session was a subject of much conjecture here.

President's Message
The following is the text of President Roosevelt's peace message:

It is my belief and that of the American people that Your Majesty and Your Majesty's government have been made aware of the averting of an outbreak of war. Any general war would cause to suffer all nations whether beligerent or neutral, whether victors or vanquished, and would clearly bring devastation to the peoples and perhaps to the governments of some nations most directly concerned.

The friends of the Italian people and among them the American people could only regard with grief the destruction of great achievements which European nations and the Italian nation in particular have attained during

Kennedy Advises American Tourists to Sail for Home

London, Aug. 24 (AP).—United States Ambassador Joseph P. Kennedy today issued a statement advising all American tourists in the British Isles to sail for home at once.

American officials estimated that there are now between 3,000 and 4,000 American tourists in England, Scotland and Wales.

The ambassador's statement said that "in a day or two" it might not be possible for them to get sailings for New York and warned them that if they stayed they might be subjected to "inconvenience, possibly danger."

He issued the statement and then went to the House of Commons for the emergency session.

Text of Soviet-German Pact

Berlin, Aug. 24 (AP).—Following is the text of the German-Soviet nonaggression pact:

The German Reich's government and the Union of the Soviet Socialist Republics, moved by a desire to strengthen the state of peace between Germany and the U. S. S. R. and in the spirit of the provisions of the neutrality treaty of April, 1926, between Germany and the U. S. S. R., have decided the following:

I. The two contracting parties obligate themselves to refrain from every act of force, every aggressive action and every attack against one another, including any single action or that taken in conjunction with other powers.

II. In case one of the parties of this treaty should become the object of warlike acts by a third power, the other party will in no way support this third power.

III. The governments of the two contracting parties in the future will constantly remain in consultation with one another in order to inform each other regarding questions of common interest.

IV. Neither of the high contracting parties will associate itself with any other grouping of powers which directly or indirectly is aimed at the other party.

V. In the event of a conflict between the contracting parties concerning any question, the two parties will adjust this difference or conflict exclusively by friendly exchange of opinions or, if necessary, by an arbitration commission.

VI. The present treaty will extend for a period of ten years with the condition that if neither of the contracting parties announces its abrogation within one year of expiration of this period, it will continue in force automatically for another period of five years.

The present treaty shall be ratified within the shortest possible time. The exchange of ratification documents shall take place in Berlin. The treaty becomes effective immediately upon signature.

Sanitarium Not to Be Sold Manager Announces Today

Theodore G. Peck, general manager for the Sahler Sanitarium, Kingston, when interviewed this morning most emphatically denied the rumor that negotiations were under way for sale of the Sanitarium to Father Divine.

Mr. Peck was very indignant that such rumors had even been started and said that there absolutely was no truth in them at all; that there had been no thought of selling to the negro messiah and that there had been no negotiations of any kind with reference to such a deal.

John Dellay, who has negotiated many deals in this region for Father Divine, also denied that any such deal was underway, at least so far as he knew anything about it.

London, Aug. 24 (AP).—Charles M. Schwab, 77-year-old American steel magnate, was resting today under the care of a physician and nurse in a London hotel. The Bethlehem Steel chairman suffered a slight heart attack about two weeks ago, but has continued to show improvement.

Premier Asks Full Dictatorial Power To Handle Crisis

Daladier Maps Plans for Union Government With All Factions Joined by Emergency

Gravest Moment

More Troops Being Called Up by Hour All Over Europe

(By The Associated Press)

British Prime Minister Chamberlain told the House of Commons today that Adolf Hitler had demanded a free hand in eastern Europe and had declared that any country that interfered would be to blame for an ensuing war.

But the prime minister told a tense house that Britain stood by her obligations to Poland.

He spoke as Europe moved toward a war footing and the hour for a showdown between Poland and Germany seemed imminent.

"God knows I have done all that is possible in efforts for peace," he said.

But he declared Britain "finds herself today with an imminent peril of war" and asked enactment of a sweeping "emergency powers bill" to meet the situation. "by the gravity of the situation," he said.

Cheers from all sides in the house indicated quick approval of his request.

Daladier Seeks Union
As Chamberlain spoke, Premier Daladier of France mapped plans to form a national union government, uniting all factions in that country, Britain's ally. More troops were being called up by the hour throughout Europe.

In Warsaw, well-informed circles reported that a German patrol crossed the Polish border this morning and occupied an estate about three-quarters of a mile within Polish territory.

Chamberlain declared Britain's promise to aid in defense of Polish independence was "unaffected" by the German-Soviet Russia non-aggression accord.

He called the pact a "bombshell" which came as an "unpleasant surprise to the British government."

The house cheered his assertion that Russia, while discussing a mutual assistance agreement with Britain and France, had been negotiating secretly with Germany for purposes "which on the face of it were inconsistent with the objects of their foreign policy as we understood it."

Hope that peace might be preserved persisted, but throughout Europe nations were preparing for any emergency.

Gravest Moment Since '14
Two events indicated that the gravest moment since 1914 was near at hand:

Germany and Soviet Russia signed a treaty of non-aggression. The pact eliminated Russia as a possible ally of Great Britain and France and greatly strengthened Germany's hand in any test of force.

The Senate of the Free City of Danzig elected Nazi Leader Albert Forster the city's chief executive.

In Germany, Fuehrer Hitler's troops stood ready for his command amid signs that Germany's resolve to settle the Danzig question promptly, even if it should mean bloodshed.

Leopold's Forceful Appeal for Peace It Is Hoped Would Influence FDR

Brussels, Aug. 24 (AP).—The hope that King Leopold's appeal for peace would inspire similar expressions by President Roosevelt and other heads of neutral nations was voiced by palace sources in Brussels today.

It was indicated here that there was no expectation the Belgian monarch's stirring call would result in any direct expressions from the heads of either the British, French or the German-Italian group of nations. Leopold's appeal was broadcast last night in the presence of the foreign ministers of the Oslo group of nations, who later departed for home.

Toro Would Act

Former Bolivian President Says He Would Help Form Government

Santiago, Chile, Aug. 24 (AP).—Col. David Toro, exiled former president of Bolivia, declared today he would return to La Paz if he were summoned to help form a government to succeed the dictatorship of Col. German Busch, dead of a gunshot wound.

The death of 35-year-old President Busch at his residence yesterday in the Bolivian capital, first described as accidental, was said by Bolivian Propaganda Minister Mario Flores to have been suicide. Toro, who was overthrown by Busch in 1937 and who attempted a counter-revolution in March, 1938, said: "I lament the tragic end of my comrade of the Chaco War for whom I felt a fatherly affection after living through many difficult hours with him."

DEATH TOLL DWINDLES

For years one of the most dread diseases of childhood was diphtheria, but through the ceaseless efforts of skilled men in the laboratories of the world it has ceased to be the deadly menace of the years not so far past. According to the records released recently by the State Health Department there were only 163 cases and 12 deaths in upstate New York in 1938.

A glance through the records of Kingston's health department shows that there was not a single death from diphtheria in this city last year, and in the past several years a case of diphtheria in this city was a rarity. This is due largely to the preventive measures taken by the health department.

For a number of years past the physicians who have been serving the city as health officers have made it a practice to hold weekly immunization clinics where parents may take their children and have them immunized from the disease. No fee or charge of any kind is made.

When immunization was first taken up in Kingston it was necessary for a child to be injected three times with the serum used at intervals of a week apart. Today but one injection is necessary.

Since Dr. L. E. Sanford was appointed health officer he has followed in the steps of his predecessors and has held weekly clinics at the city hall where children may be immunized by the injection of the serum. These weekly clinics will be resumed in September, being interrupted for two weeks by Dr. Sanford being absent from the city on his annual vacation.

With the holding of these weekly clinics there is no reason for the breaking out of a case of diphtheria in the city.

In addition to these weekly clinics at the city hall in past years it has been the custom of Dr. Sanford to hold clinics in various sections of the city, and undoubtedly when he returns to resume his duties plans will be made for an extension of the preventive measures.

With immunization from diphtheria free to all there is no reason why parents should not consider the welfare of their children and also the community by having them immunized.

CANTALOUPE PIE

The pie area is expanding. That is, the area of materials used for pies. Somebody challenged the world to make a cantaloupe pie, and a woman given to experiment replies that she has already done so.

Just why anyone should want to turn melon into pie is hard to see. The challenge in this case was based on the fact that the cantaloupe that morning didn't seem edible in its usual form, and the husband called it "punk", so the wife decided to try turning it into "punkin".

It wasn't so bad either, she reports. "By adding considerably more 'sugar and spice and all things nice' than usual, I concocted a pie that was really quite edible." But for some reason or other, she never repeated the experiment.

Well, there may be dozens of unsuspected materials at hand to make pies with, besides the usual run of basic materials. If appetizing pies can be made from the coarse cow-fodder known as pumpkins, why not also from squash, potatoes, vegetable marrow, rutabaga, mangle wurtzel, and so on? Add enough eggs, milk, sugar, cinnamon, vanilla, nutmeg and one thing and another, from the pantry shelf, and a tolerable dessert might be produced from sawdust.

JAP HYSTERIA

A news story from Tokyo, by Frank Hedges, in telling of the treatment the British are getting in Japan, incidentally reveals the strange state of mind into which the Japanese themselves have fallen.

"Great Britain and all things British," he says, "are now subject to the most widespread and violent campaign of abuse and vituperation that has ever occurred in peace time in Japan."

"The Japanese public is used to staging these anti-British, anti-American, anti-Chinese or anti-Russian campaigns, but for decades past none has even approached the present anti-British crusade."

Americans have always thought of the Japanese as a gentle and courteous people. So they are, in their home life and in their normal contacts with foreigners. But they are intensely proud and patriotic, and also seem to have a vein of hysteria very close to the mental surface. Thus they may, as in the present case, develop an almost maniacal mass-hatred when their plans are thwarted. They are obviously moved, in the present case, mainly by their own failure to conquer China. Great Britain, which has offered only moderate opposition to their plans, is now their national scapegoat. Our own country may be next.

CHEMISTRY MIGRATES

Germany used to be the world-leader in the realm of chemistry, especially industrial chemistry. It sacrificed much of that leadership in the World War, which drove other countries to work out their own chemical formulas and methods. As a result, chemical progress in this country has been so rapid ever since that, as the American Chemical Society reports, the United States now outranks all other nations in chemical research and industrial chemistry.

Germany, except for some new chemical developments connected with warfare, has fallen a long way behind, especially under the Hitler regime. It is one of the big prizes paid for concentrating on war and threats of war as a means to national prosperity.

SYMPTOMS OF ORGANIC DISEASE

In a group of children, twelve in number, with symptoms resembling true or organic disease, it was found that the various symptoms were caused by something about themselves or their surroundings and not by disease.

There were disorders of movement resembling chorea or St. Vitus dance, convulsions resembling epilepsy, and paralysis resembling brain tumor.

Disorders of sensation in throat, chest and abdomen—loss of appetite, vomiting, reeling, stomach or appendix disturbance, shortness of breath resembling heart disease, bed-wetting resembling bladder disease.

Disorders of body sensation including pains of covering of the heart, pleurisy, arthritis, and loss of sensation in various parts of the body.

Disorders of behavior with disturbances in the intellect and in the emotional control, resembling various mental diseases.

Dr. William A. Hawke, Toronto, in the Canadian Medical Association Journal, in reviewing these twelve cases from records of the Toronto Hospital for Sick Children, states that in these cases the symptoms of which resemble true organic ailments, these disorders do not arise in happy, well-adjusted children, nor do they arise (of themselves) in normal children. In every case there has been some frustration, dissatisfaction, or loss of security which has led to the presence of these abnormal symptoms. He groups the factor causing these symptoms into two types—those which arise within the youngster himself, and those arising from his environment—home and school life.

Among those in the youngster himself is the intellectual factor—below or above average; the physical factors—infection, chronic illness; the emotional factors—the timid sensitive child and the aggressive child with temper tantrums who tries to boss the family.

The factors in the environment are: (1) the parents—they may be cruel, brutal, quarrelsome; on the other hand, they may be overindulgent, over-careful of their children; (2) the family—ill adjustment with other members; (3) the home; (4) the neighborhood; (5) the school; (6) the opportunities for play or recreation.

In over three quarters of the cases there were difficulties in school adjustment. Dr. Hawke states that treatment of these cases depends upon a few or many people—the physician, the school authorities, the social worker, the Y.M.C.A. or Boy Scouts and others.

Only three of the twelve boys and girls in the group were below normal mentally.

Today in Washington

European Crisis Proves Source of Information at State Department are Accurate and Prophetic.

By DAVID LAWRENCE

(Copyright, 1939)

Washington, Aug. 24—The crisis in Europe proves conclusively that the sources of information of the department of state are accurate and prophetic. Several weeks ago, Secretary Hull told members of the Senate foreign relations committee what was expected in a general way to materialize in August, and some of the senators were inclined to be skeptical—they thought the secretary was unduly apprehensive.

Information from the American embassies and legations abroad has consistently been to the effect that the powers of Europe were going to reach a climax in their jockeying for advantage this summer. That was one of the reasons President Roosevelt didn't want Congress to postpone action on the neutrality law revision. Indeed, he was of the opinion that a war might be prevented if the Congress notified the world this summer that any nation could come to America and buy war supplies in time of war.

Just how much the refusal of the American Congress to repeal the arms embargo encouraged Chancellor Hitler to strike this summer, on the theory that the Congress was adjourned and could not be summoned back in time to permit the allies to get assurances of a continuous flow of American war materials, is one of those questions that probably will never be answered. But the fact is Berlin is moving into action in late August as predicted by high officials here.

The decision of the President to return to Washington, cutting his vacation trip, does not mean that a call for an extra session will be made at once. Rather there will be a tendency now on the part of the administration to let events force the issue.

For many of the critics of the President have broadly accused him of stirring up the war talk, especially when he permitted his ambassadors to talk confidentially to the Senate members.

Was the President, therefore, unduly alarmed? The evidence this week shows that he feared the very contingencies which have arisen, and now that the crisis is coming to a head, the hope here is that some way may yet be found to bring about a peaceful solution without the necessity of any further steps in Washington at this time. The feeling prevails because the mere calling of a special session is likely to produce certain effects abroad and give rise to a possible impression of American participation when there is no such intention.

The American people have indicated as clearly as public opinion can possibly outline it that they do not want the United States dragged into war. But the furnishing of war materials is something which is in a different category, and, as pointed out in these dispatches earlier this week, if Canada is to become the base of supply for the British and French, it may well be that American economic interests will be directly affected, especially in the possible emigration of skilled workmen, of whom there is a scarcity already. This may indirectly affect American wage scales.

The underlying thought here is that war is not going to materialize this summer, though it is recognized an untoward event may set the sparks flying at any moment. The Russian maneuvers have been watched with intense interest, but it cannot be said that they are unexpected. Diplomatic information here for some time has been to the effect that Germany and Russia were apt at any time to draw closer together.

While it is assumed that Russia has not directly allied herself with Germany, but has in effect declared herself out of any combat, it is realized that third party actions may change the whole picture. Perhaps the most interesting immediate effect is on American public opinion. Up to now the pro-ally sympathizers have had to contend with the argument that the British were taking upon their bosom a Communistic country, and that Communism was just as bad as Fascism. Today Communism and Fascism being put, so to speak, on the same side of the fence creates new complications for those who have been defending the Franco idea in Spain.

The whole scene has been to some extent altered for the United States. Japan has become doubtful about joining up with Rome and Berlin because a possible estrangement with Britain is concerned. Japan cannot count too strongly any more on Berlin friendship because the Russian alliance is of more immediate value to Berlin.

So, with Japan hesitant about getting into the European muddle, and Russia declaring herself virtually a neutral, the showdown will have to come along as between the British-French policy and the Berlin diplomacy. In Washington, it is assured that the German people are not yet ready to fight and that French and British mobilization will cause considerable alarm and hesitation in Germany, where, after all, the people must yet be persuaded to go to war. The outlook for peace would seem to be better now that French mobilization has begun.

Rotary Visits Camp Happyland

Members of the Kingston Rotary Club made their annual visit on Wednesday noon to Camp Happyland, where they thoroughly enjoyed the pleasure of seeing some 50 happy little girls at the county health camp on Clifton avenue.

Following a delicious repast, home cooked and served family style, a short business session was held.

Radiating health and happiness, the little girls entertained with musical and instrumental selections and dancing that displayed talent upon the part of the youngsters and reflected ability upon the part of the instructors.

The smallest to the largest child at Camp Happyland took part in the interesting and entertaining program. It was the consensus of all that the children who came from all parts of Ulster county were not only getting healthful recreation, but also having a very good time. During the program each child introduced herself and told of some of the health lessons she learned while at camp and would carry out during the entire year.

With the improvement in physical up-building, the children looked ready to return to their homes and then to school better prepared to carry on. Only a visit to Camp Happyland can bring a full realization of what is being accomplished for these children.

Following the program members were shown the educational projects and the work done by the children. On exhibition were: dollies, embroidery, scrapbooks, art work, clay models, leather belts and paper mache ash trays.

Camp Happyland is maintained by the Ulster County Tuberculosis Committee and the children while in camp are guests of the Christmas Seals Committee.

President B. C. Van Ingen expressed the deep appreciation of the service club for the invitation extended to visit Camp Happyland and he also congratulated Miss Katherine M. Murphy, director of the health camp, and the counselors and also the children for their delightful entertainment.

The efforts of the children in decorating the luncheon hall in the colors of the Rotary Club were greatly appreciated.

Miss Murphy, after expressing her pleasure in the interest shown in this health project by the Rotary Club, introduced the counselors and the nurse in charge.

Secretary C. E. Brown read a letter from Rotarian, Frederic Snyder, who is now in Guatemala.

Emil Boessneck reported on the recent day of sports and meeting held at the Fowlellon Club in Newburgh by the Rotary Club of that city.

Know Your Law

By CARROLL E. MEALEY
 Commissioner of Motor Vehicles

(Editor's Note: Below are presented some questions and answers on the subject of the Vehicle and Traffic Law and rules of the road. Readers are invited to submit questions to Information Service, Bureau of Motor Vehicles, Albany, N. Y.)

Q—If a person observes a motorist violating the law, for example, by passing through a red light, can he report this action to the Bureau of Motor Vehicles?

A—Yes. He must, however, furnish the registration number of the vehicle, the exact violation, together with the date, time and location of the incident.

Q—What action is taken by the Bureau of Motor Vehicles?

A—On receipt of the complaint, the alleged offender is forwarded a letter of warning. The complainant's name is not divulged by the Bureau. A letter of acknowledgment together with a copy of the letter of warning is sent to the person who made the complaint. The complaint is then recorded against the personal operating record of the registrant for reference regarding any future accidents or violations.

Q—Does the Bureau take the same action in cases where complaints of a serious nature, such as driving while intoxicated or leaving the scene of an accident, are received?

A—No. In cases where one motorist prefers charges of a serious nature pertaining to a violation of the Vehicle and Traffic Law, against another, he is advised by the Bureau to obtain a summons for the offender to appear in court. This is necessary since the bureau is not vested with any enforcement powers. The person against whom the complaint is registered, however, is immediately notified by the Bureau that the alleged offense was entered against his record.

Panama Canal traffic tolls for the first seven months of 1939, its 25th anniversary year, totaled a little more than $13,000,000.

18 years, was read by Joseph L. Morgan. A copy of the resolution will be sent to the bereaved family and a copy spread on the minutes of the meeting. Members of the resolution committee were Joseph L. Morgan, John Egan and A. D. Pardee.

Arthur J. Laidlaw, superintendent of Kingston schools, attended his first meeting as a Kingston Rotarian.

Among the guests present were Mayor C. J. Heiselman, Police Chief J. Allan Wood, Judge Joseph M. Fowler, chairman of the Ulster County Tuberculosis Committee, Clifford Hall of Albany and George Warren, honorary member.

We Introduce A Man Who's Always Raising Something

Bladensburg, Md. (P)—Henry T. Hartley, now struggling with tides, currents and pontoons to bring the sunken submarine Squalus into port, has had a lifetime of raising things.

In his spare time he raises a garden. At work he raised the submarines S-51 and S-4—and brought himself up from third class apprentice boy to commander in the navy.

Hartley, who might have raised hogs and heifers at his home here, went into the navy at 16 in 1901.

Promotion made Hartley boatswain, warrant rank, just before the World War. The war gave him a commission as ensign—at 33—and command of a subchaser. He came out a lieutenant.

Not An Important Job

There were lots of lieutenants then and few ships. Hartley drew the minesweeper Falcon, converted to a submarine tender.

This wasn't a very important command—until the liner City of Rome rammed and sank the S-51 off Block Island in 1925. Hartley blocked and worked a year, struggling to keep heavy, pitching pontoons from cracking open each other or the Falcon, before he brought the sub in.

In 1927 the coast guard ship Paulding sliced into the S-4. The Falcon and Hartley turned out and came back a year later—with the submarine.

Congress gave Hartley the distinguished service cross and the navy medal for the S-51 work. It couldn't do much more for him after the S-4, but it raised him 35 numbers on the promotion list and

Four Newsmen Are Europe's 'Mouthpieces'; Will One Of Them Announce The Next War?

VLADIMIR POLIAKOFF, or "Augur," as he signs himself, is a newspaperman who stands out in England—a shrewd, conspicuously-chinned, bald, Jewish white Russian. He looks like Mussolini and is proud of it. He admires Mussolini but not Hitler.

He writes for the New York Times, the London Express, European papers, and nearly a hundred provincial British papers. He writes books. He will lecture in the U. S. next winter.
But the aptest commentary on his reputation is the fact that he is avidly read by the diplomats themselves. He edits a special diplomatic letter for embassies and legations.

Augur is not always right—but he is right often enough to maintain his reputation and the handsome living that naturally follows.

A naturalized Englishman now,
he became a journalist by accident.
It happened 20 years ago. He had escaped from the Bolshevik revolution in Russia. A newspaper publisher in London asked him to write a piece on Russia, and so Augur changed from an engineer to a newspaperman.

His motto: "Know your man
ten years before you kneed him."
Augur on war:
"Nothing is inevitable. But we are right on the edge of the knife."

By The AP Feature Service

In this age of secret diplomacy, four European newspapermen back in reputations as purveyors of "inside information."
Some of them often supply the nearest thing available to an official statement on current events. If war comes, the tip-off may come through one of these Big Four:

IRGINIO GAYDA, Italian officials will tell you, is not Musso-lini's spokesman. But they usually add: "Very reliable man though. Usually has things right."
The fact is, though, that nowhere else in the world is there an individual, unattached to the government, to whom so many people look for indications of government policy.

Gayda, editor of the Giornale d'Italia, has in the past two years come to be regarded as the voice of the Fascist regime.

He works under a picture of Mussolini in an old Roman palace.
His desk is littered with newspapers, clippings, books.

Gayda on the international situation:
"And the world moreover knows that, exactly because of this essence of theirs, which elevates the conscience and force of the Italian and German nations and overturns the traditional systems of the democracies upon which all the parasitic fals have grafted themselves, among the great world democracies war is already declared and opened against the Fascist and National Socialist revolutions, or rather against Italy and Germany, which must unite all their means of defense against the common menace."

ANDRE GERAUD of Paris has been writing political news for 22 years under the name of "Pertinax." For more than a decade, at first almost alone among French observers, he has insisted that a reborn Germany would bring Europe to a new crisis.

Now, in 1939, when the crisis is full blown, Pertinax says its greatest effect on him has been to "destroy my home life and ruin my exercise."

Such a remark typifies his divided life. Pertinax, the confidant of statesmen, is essentially a homebody. He does much writing at home, enjoys his gardens.

Pertinax writes fluently in both English and French. He directs and edits "L'Europe Nouvelle"
(The New Europe), a political review. He writes also for L'Ordre, the Baltimore Sun and This Week.

He is stocky, of medium height, carefully dressed. He favors gray suits, a gray homburg hat, and gray gloves.

Pertinax describes his politics
as: "France."

Himself: "A lover of dogs, good food, fine French wines and sports."

His methods: "My good friends telephone me. The others, I telephone."

CAPTAIN WILHELM WEISS, a pale, slim, little man, runs the Nazi party's most important and official organ: the Voelkischer Beobachter of Munich, Berlin and Vienna. Like Goebbels, Weiss is crippled. He lost a leg during the World War. Like Goering, Weiss holds a number of titles.

Weiss is 47 years old. Friends say he opened the World War by an unauthorized shot. At the fortress of Metz, on hearing that the declaration of war had been signed, he caused the first cannon to boom at the French—although the order to fire had not been given.

Always a soldier, he had joined the Kaiser's army in 1911. Afterward he became a journalist, met Hitler in 1922, and shared in early Nazi party struggles.

Weiss on journalism:
"The National Socialist is never exclusively a journalist, but always a propagandist, charged with political energies."

"The people err who mourn the loss of the so-called freedom of the press. The German Reich would never have been able to carry through its tremendous work of reconstruction if the editors of the German press had been able to seize upon the problems involved in as irresponsible and undisciplined a manner as in former times."

They Fought One War: Now Another?

When Polish Foreign Minister Joseph Beck (left) attended the Cracow reunion of the Pilsudski legion, he greeted his comrades-at-arms, heard cries of "We want Danzig." The legion fought with Austria-Hungary against Russia until Russia's 1917 collapse, then turned on Germany, Austria, to fight for Poland's independence.

SHOKAN

Shokan, Aug. 23.—The Misses Ann and Ruth Didier of Flushing are visiting their aunt, Miss Edna Longyear.

Earl Brundage of the mountain road returned home Monday from Kingston where he has been taking medical treatment for the past several weeks. Mr. Brundage's numerous friends will be glad to learn that he is feeling much better.

E. Stahlhuth of New York is visiting his sister, Mrs. Frank Barringer, of the north boulevard. The curbing of the roadway atop the Winchell Hill dike is being repaired by members of the reservoir force. Both local residents and summer visitors get a big kick out of the evening parade of milk trucks and convoys as they zoom through the village about dusk. Clement Smith, who has been sworn in as special deputy, was one of the guards Tuesday evening when nearly two score trucks and cars came down from the mountains. Grant Every and family of the Back Brook neighborhood were callers in the village Sunday. Thomas Naughton, who has one of the largest meat stores on Madison avenue, and Mrs. Joseph Naughton of Fleetwood were callers here last week. They were accompanied back to the city by ex-Police. Lieutenant Joseph Naughton who had been spending a week in Shokan.

Mrs. Oscar Ganter, Emmett Ganter and the Misses Lorraine Gorman and Eileen Kelly enjoyed a motor trip to Saugerties Monday in the Ganters' sports roadster.

A local real estate transfer of August 23, 1895, was that of a property on the east side of the Esopus creek from William P. Castle to Mary Short and Libbie Burton. The Castle farm of 55 acres was located near the Shokan-Browns Station road.

Mrs. Anna Secor, a highly esteemed resident of the Tonche neighborhood, attended O. S. Baptist Church services here Sunday. Mrs. Secor, now in her late eighties, is enjoying good health and is active in her household work at the Secor farm.

Mrs. Charles Josefson of New York is visiting her aunt, Mrs. Jennie Green.

T. E. Kelly and Albert Wallerstein of New York spent Sunday with their families in the village center.

Robert Lawson, who with his brother, John, graduated from Yale last June, has returned from a trip to Europe and is spending some time with his mother, Mrs. William Tueling. Robert toured the Scandinavian countries with his fellow members of the Yale Glee Club.

British on Guard
London (UP)—After six months' countrywide terrorism by the Irish Republican Army, officials in Whitehall's gloomy government offices have realized there's nothing to stop anyone of reasonably good appearance from leaving a bomb in one of their corridors. Steps have been taken. Now all visitors to various department buildings must fill in "Who-Why-What-Where-When?" ticket before being admitted and theoretically cannot leave again without it. Not even veteran reporters who call the door attendants by their first names are exempt.

Frey Gains Confidence
Cincinnati (UP)—Lonny Frey, second baseman with Cincinnati, attributes his good season to increased confidence resulting from his growing familiarity with second base play. This is his second year at that post on a full-time basis.

You Get Dadium
Washington — Development of an improved portable radium detector, sensitive enough to detect the slightest evidence of radio-active material in a living person, is reported by the National Bureau of Standards. It is said the device will help decrease accidental contamination by radioactive materials, a frequent occurrence in research laboratories and commercial plants where the materials are handled.

On Two Wheels
Omaha, Neb. (UP)—Earl Coolman's automobile lost a wheel as it crossed a railroad track. He and his family got out, and he tried to repair the damage. Coolman heard a passenger train coming, and he waved his arms wildly. But the engineer failed to see him. Wham! And a second wheel was gone. No one was hurt.

Meet Mr. Lochinvar

By Marie Blizard

YESTERDAY: Locke returns, looking like a fashion plate. Cecily confides to Laura what she found in Locke's cabin.

Chapter 30

Telephone Call

"YOU can't be in love with him," said Laura, "or you would not be so ready to be suspicious of him."

Cecily was beyond reason. "But, Laura, he was in Vickersport last night. We both saw him. And never have I seen him looking the way he did. He came back yesterday. Tony saw him getting off the bus. And he hasn't been in all day! I haven't left this shop since nine this morning."

"He's a man of affairs, probably."

"Affairs! Filling perry buckets, dangle a fishpole over the side of a dock, whitening a piece of wood! Affairs!"

"Well, Cecily, make up your mind. You like him and accept him for what he is, or you forget him."

"I'll forget him. How could I do anything else?"

"If I were you, I'd find out. I'm on his side. I like him. I don't know much about men but I do know something about human nature. I agree with you that things look suspicious, his fine clothes and his pretenses, and his air of mystery about himself, but I'll rely on my instincts about him. He's a gentleman and I don't believe he'd do any wrong. Why don't you have it out with him? Why don't you tell him how you feel about his... well, his banter?"

"Easier said than done, my friend. Do you bid the east wind come when you want it? Can you turn on the moon? Can you wave your hand in the air and make people appear out of a cloud of dust?"

Laura laughed. "Goose! This isn't New York. No one could hide from you here if you wanted to see them."

"There is also the point that I don't want to talk to him. I can't explain it to you, Laura, but things are just that way between us. I simply can't seek him out."

"But I could," Laura said simply.

The idea arrested Cecily. "Oh, let's forget it. I guess I'm just tired. You're quite right—I have been making a situation out of something that really isn't important."

She got up and put on her white coat.

"I wish I could ask you back to the cottage with me, Cecily, but I'm having supper at the inn to-night with Miss Dixon."

"I'd better hurry or I won't have a chance to change for dinner," Cecily said.

Cecily hurried through her bath, put pads of cold water-soaked cotton on her swollen eyes and came down to dinner a little later as the others were going into the dining-room.

She took little part in the conversation, feeling herself no part of anything.

They were having coffee in the drawing-room when Helene said, "Olivia apparently the recent unpleasantness at Mrs. Brewster's is not finished business. Your housemaid informed Wilson who told it in turn to Manuel that Mrs. Brewster sent for a detective from a Boston agency. He came yesterday and left today."

"I Wouldn't!"

"But Mrs. Brewster said it was all nonsense! That Lady Rathbone never did have the pin."

"Wouldn't she say that to make her guests feel more at ease?"

Olivia dismissed it. "I suppose she would. What a lot of unpleasantness over one small pin!"

"Mother, you'd be having hysterics all over the place if you lost an ear-ring," Gloria said banteringly.

"Listen to the child! Do you see me making a fuss, Gloria? And haven't I a half-million dollars' worth of jewels in my bedroom safe?"

"Do let us see them, Olivia," Helene pleaded.

"It's silly of me but I always take them with me even up here. I never wear more than a piece or two but I do rather drape myself for the concert. Aurelia Despechi always wears her rubies for the concert and Madame Branzanga wears every one of her famous pearls. I'll go along and get them."

Olivia reached toward the door but Tony called out as she quickly. She placed a hand gently on Olivia's arm.

"I wouldn't, Madame Darrell. Much as we'd like to see them, I do think they're safer where they are. After all, one never knows."

Olivia hesitated, measured glance for glance with Tony and Laura and finally said, "Dear child! They'd be quite safe here. However, I think it would be a bore. Some other time."

She turned back to the room and crossed to the piano.

Tony's gaze followed her and Cecily rose swiftly, intending to follow an impulse that came to her.

For once she intended to follow an impulse without questioning it. The telephone—there was only one at Darleale and that an old-fashioned one that required ringing the extension one wanted by simply turning a handle—was at the end of the main hall, back of the coat closet.

Cecily made her way to it and picked up the receiver. She twisted the handle once slowly, twice fast, trying to do it gently so that the echoing tinkle wouldn't be heard in the drawing-room.

After a little while a voice answered her.

"Is this the inn? May I please speak with Mrs. Atwell? She's having supper with Miss Dixon."

"Yes, thank you, I'll wait."

Cecily, waiting for Laura, couldn't see around at her back. She heard footsteps come into the hall and go away again.

Then she heard Laura's voice. She dropped hers so that she was speaking barely above a whisper.

"Laura, this is Cecily. Mrs. Brewster has had a detective up from Boston. I must see Locke. He knows something, I'm sure. I just have a hunch that there is something afoot. Do you think it would be all right for me to go to his cabin? It's moonlight and I'm not afraid. I want to talk to him. I have a feeling he can clear up things. Yes, that trip of his had something to do with it, I'm sure."

"You will? ... But should you? ... Oh, it's easy to find. ... Yes, straight down the North road past the Soderstrom's place. No, there isn't another place anywhere along the road. ... All right, to-night."

Reasonable Explanation? SHE rang off, not knowing what to do. Laura was right, of course. Laura should go, not Cecily.

And Laura had promised her that she would not go alone; she'd get one of the Calder boys to walk the lonely road with her.

Cecily stood undetermined for a minute and then went out into the hall. She came almost face to face with Philip.

"I was going to call the drug-store and ask them to send up some soda, Cecily, but now I have a better idea. Why don't we take a walk to the village together? I haven't had your pleasant company alone for a long time."

Cecily's eyes scanned his face searchingly. Had he heard her conversation?

Satisfied that he hadn't, she said, "Not tonight, Philip. I've had a hard day and I'm going to turn in early and read myself to sleep."

"Okay, little one. I'll see if one of the others will go. I could do with a bit of fresh air."

Cecily went back to the drawing-room and picked up her knitting. Mechanically, she lifted thread over thread, clicking her needles smartly in time to the quickening pace of her thoughts.

Laura, as a disinterested stranger, could talk to Locke, demand to know all about him, explain the situation and get a reasonable explanation.

After tomorrow everything would be all right. And if the explanation were not reasonable, she thrust the knitting into her bag and got up. "If you'll excuse me, I think I'll turn in."

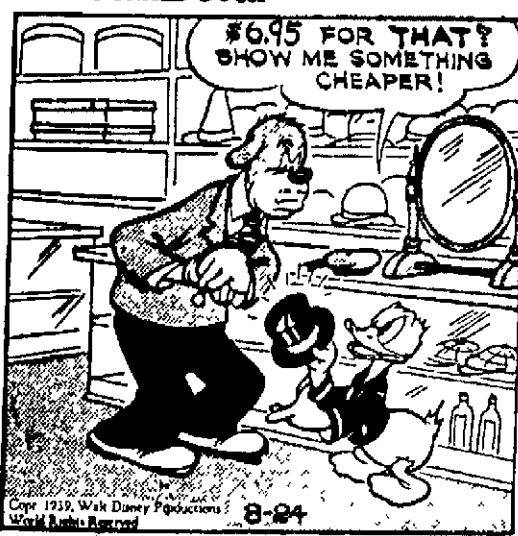

"Don't go, Cecily. Philip is going to the village to get some soda. It's going to make a hot punch. Think how well you'll sleep after that."

"I'll sleep well enough now, Gloria," Cecily yawned extravagantly.

She did sleep. But it was not well enough. Troubled dreams and a troubled conscience haunted her. She tossed the night away dreaming that Laura—poor, scared, timid little thing—had been accosted by a mountain lion on the road to Locke. She woke with the subconscious thought haggling at the edge of her consciousness and was glad for the daylight which would bring an end to it.

Continued tomorrow.

Secrets of Success

Are "yes-men" really dumb indeed?

Is that the way they earn their dough?

If they are asked why they succeed

They smile and say, "We never No."

The bride of a few weeks noticed that her husband was depressed.

She—Ernest, dearest, I know there is something troubling you, and I want you to tell me what it is;

your worries are not your worries now—they are our worries.

He—Oh, very well then, we've just had a letter from a girl, and she's sung us for breach of promise.

Most people are steppers, either of the "high" or "wide" variety.

Judge—What is the defendant's reputation for veracity?

Witness—Excellent, your honor,

I've known him to admit that he had been fishing all day and hadn't got a single bite.

Brighten the corner where you are with optimism.

I AM CALLING YOU

I am the best friend you ever had.

I am hung about with sweet memories. Memories of Mothers

Brides. Memories of Mothers

Memories of Fathers. Memories of Boys and Girls

Memories of angels as they walk in the shadows.

I am blessed with loving thoughts, crowned by happy hands and hearts. In the minds of the greatest men on earth I find a constant dwelling place. I safeguard man through all his paths. I lift up the weak, I help the distressed, I show mercy, bestow kindness and offer a friendly hand.

I am good fellowship, friendliness, love. Some time—some day in the near future YOU will yearn for the touch of my friendly hand.

I witness always to the best in life.

I stand foursquare against all evil.

I help the young to really live. I solve many problems for these in the hey-day of life. I bring comfort to the aged, and strength to the weak, consolation to the bereaved.

I create faith in and between your fellow men.

Can you afford to pass me up and by? I am calling you NOW. I AM YOUR CHURCH!

take a bunch of these balloons home to the children.

Little Boy—Between us, my father and I know everything in the world.

Companion—All right then, smarty. Where's Patagonia?

Little Boy—Well, that's one of the questions my father knows.

Easy money is the kind usually that gets out of your pockets and not into them.

Sambo wanted to be a junk dealer, but he had no money. He therefore went to the village banker to see if he could borrow some capital to start in business.

The banker listened to the colored man's case, and heard that he required a hundred dollars.

Banker—But don't you think you could manage on less than that?

Sambo—No, suh. A horse and wagon would cost most of that.

Banker—Well, I must have some guaranty for the money, you know. What can you offer?

Sambo (after thinking a minute)—Well, suh, I could have your name painted on the wagon.

Read it or not—Bolivia has the smallest stamp of any country in the world.

Arctic Explorer—It was so cold where we were that the candle froze and we couldn't blow it out.

Rival—That's nothing. Where we were the words came out of our mouths in pieces of ice, and we had to fry them to see what we were talking about.

The Misses Edith and Wilma Schweigel went on the excursion to Albany Wednesday.

Fred Schweigel of New York is spending his vacation at the Schweigel summer camp on the River road.

Mr. and Mrs. Jacob Short have moved into their new home on Salem street.

Mr. and Mrs. A. Wurts Taylor of Albany were recent guests of Mr. and Mrs. P. J. Kane at their home on Broadway.

Mrs. W. C. Mabie, Mrs. Edw. Hotelling and Miss Roberta Hotelling enjoyed the excursion to Albany Wednesday.

Finally Paid Their Bill

Lynchburg, Va. (AP)—Maurice D. Langhorne watched a swarm of bees settle in a column on his front porch three years ago, and decided to let the visitors stay.

The other day he smoked out the bees and found 70 pounds of honey.

Asks 'Foreign' Advice

Washington, Aug. 24 (AP)—Chairman Dies (D-Tex.) asked counsel for the House committee on un-American affairs today to determine whether this country has recourse against countries whose diplomats "meddle in domestic affairs." Dies made it plain that this action was the result of testimony by Henry D. Allen of Los Angeles who said two days ago he visited the German and Italian embassies on a trip to Washington in 1938. Allen described himself as a west coast leader of activities against "Jewish-Communism."

Last rites for John J. Cleary, well-known New York Central Railroad conductor who died Monday morning, were held this morning from the Henry J. Bruck Home for Funerals and from St. Joseph's Church where a high Mass of requiem was offered for the repose of his soul by the Rev. Michael Brannigan, of the Holy Ghost Missionary Fathers, of Philadelphia, Pa. The music during the service was directed by the church organist, Mrs. Frank Rafferty, while William Raille, the soloist, augmented the children's choir in the chanting of the responses. St. Joseph's Church was well-filled with the many friends of the late Mr. Cleary, who was held in high esteem by a multitude of friends. Among the many groups in attendance at the rites was a delegation of Railroad officials and employees with whom Mr. Cleary was associated for many years, and a representation of the Fourth Degree Knights of Columbus. Throughout the time Mr. Cleary's body reposed in the Bruck Chapel large numbers of friends called to pay their last respects and offered words of consolation to his bereaved widow, daughter and relatives. Numerous floral tributes together with Mass cards were received in memory of Mr. Cleary. Railroad officials and employees met in groups at the chapel as well as members of St. Joseph's Holy Name Society, and the Knights of Columbus. The latter two organizations recited the Rosary for the repose of his soul, the Holy Name being led by the Rev. Father Brannigan, and the Knights of Columbus by their chaplain, the Rev. Henry E. Hearn. A Fourth Degree Knights of Columbus Honor Guard was present at the service. This morning, composed of Sir Knights Patrick T. Murphy, Allen A. Baker, Francis A. Reis, Thomas Cloonan, Edward Cloonan, Thomas Lodge, Joseph J. Murphy, Frederick Fraser, John P. Whalen, Frank L. Meagher, Honorary bearers were Louis Stratton, William Powell, Michael Larkin, Thomas Quest, John Casey, Thomas McMartin and James Cahill. Active bearers were J. Addison Fraser, John C. Mahoney, James Brice, Edward Richards, A. T. Cahill and Dennis J. Murphy. Burial took place in St. Mary's Cemetery, where the final absolution was given by the Rev. John P. McCaffrey.

Dr. A. J. Ward Dies

Greenwich, Conn., Aug. 24 (AP)—Dr. Andrew J. Ward, 75, a veterinarian here for 37 years and a recognized authority on saddle horses about which he was consulted often by race track officials, stable and private farm owners throughout the south and west, died at his home today of a heart attack.

Lion Loose on Ship

New York, Aug. 24 (AP)—The S. S. Amazon, off Cape May, N. J., wireless today that a lion had broken loose from a cargo of wild animals bound for Venezuela and that the ship had no guns on board. The coast guard station at Cape May messaged the ship that it would send a boat with two lion trainers from Clyde Beatty's animal circus, playing at Atlantic City, N. J., and meet the Amazon at a point below Cape May.

Won't Throw Switch

Ossining, N. Y., Aug. 24 (AP)—For the first time in 13 years Robert Elliott will not throw the switch when a condemned man is executed here tonight. Elliott has been ill for several weeks and Warden Lewis E. Dawes has an application list of 500 names from which to pick a man for the $500 execution. Arthur Perry of New York city is scheduled to be electrocuted at 11 p. m.

Heavy Decline in Stocks Wednesday

Stocks on the New York Stock Exchange opened weak Wednesday morning and after midday began a steady decline which was greatly accelerated in the last hour, when there was a wave of selling, 450,000 out of the day's total of 790,000 shares changing hands in that time and over half of the day's net losses being registered on news that there had been a sharp advance in war risk insurance rates and soaring wheat prices at Winnipeg. All classes of securities showed substantial losses for the day. Industrials in the Dow-Jones averages lost 3.25 points, closing at 131.82. Rails were off 1.03 points, to 25.71 and the utilities declined .84 point, to 24.00. U. S. Steel was one of 55 stocks which set new lows for the year. All bonds averages showed losses and many speculative issues made new lows for the year.

Increased tension in the international situation was reflected in world commodity markets. Wheat at Winnipeg advanced five cents a bushel, the limit for a single day's trading, as there was sudden withdrawal by the Canadian Wheat Board of cash wheat offerings. At Chicago wheat futures advanced 3 1/4 to 3 1/2 cents a bushel. Coarse grains followed suit and corn prices soared 2 1/4 to 3 1/2 cents a bushel. Sugar, an essential war commodity, displayed marked strength. Cocoa, which has been lagging, made its first gain in several months, being up 22 points. Dow-Jones commodity index gained 0.81 point for the day.

The London market held firm through the day and Financial Times averages showed a gain. Paris was firm after early irregularity, with trading inactive. Amsterdam was quiet and narrowly irregular. Much of the more unfavorable news yesterday came after the close of the London market.

The British Board of Trade banned the export of such strategic materials as copper, lead and zinc and prices were lower, copper sharply.

Domestic news includes increased demand for electricity and electric output last week totaled 2,367,646,000 kw, breaking the previous high by nearly 5,000,000 kw.

C. & O. Railroad is making inquiries for 2,500 freight cars. Montgomery Ward & Co. has challenged the constitutionality of the Fair Labor Standards Act in answering a show-cause order as to why the company should not produce records of its Kansas City mail order plant for the wage-hour administration. Victory for the firm in the test case would provide extensive relief from excessive demands of federal administrative agencies for corporate records.

Hopes are expressed that the fall automobile production season may be reasonably free from major strikes. At present the chief threat to orderly business procedure is seen in the uncertain labor relationships of Parts companies. The General Motors problem is still undecided as NLRB has not yet ordered election.

The state department announces intentions to open negotiations for a reciprocal trade agreement with Argentina, reviving commerce with that country and offsetting European competition. Reo Motors reports net loss of $233,603 for the quarter ended June 30, vs. loss of $561,585 in the 1938 quarter. Crown Zellerbach showed net profit of $1,729,874, vs. net loss of $970,055.

In the six months ended June 30, Cities Service had net of $2,528,377, vs. net of $2,133,137, period of $5,149,832. Associated Dry Goods had net loss in the half year of $60,000, vs. loss year ago of $510,000.

Bangor & Arisbrook Railroad declared a dividend of 50 cents on common.

New York, Aug. 24 (AP)—A wide-spread wave that knocked down leaders 1 to more than five points was finally stepped in today's stock market and extreme losses were reduced or erased in many cases near the closing hour.

A mildly lower drift at the start turned into a fairly fast downward push later as war fears were accentuated and a number of impaired margin accounts were dumped. There was a quick about-face mid-way of the second hour, however, and, for a brief period the ticker tape was behind floor transactions. Dealings then slowed appreciably. As the proceedings neared the finish prices were well mixed. Transfers were at the rate of approximately 1,400,000 shares.

Aiding the attempted upward reversal, brokers said, were confirmed rumors in Wall Street that the Polish Foreign Minister Beck was flying to Germany to try and settle the threatening impasse over Danzig. A burst of short covering, in addition to speculative buying on the belief the market may have been oversold, proved a bolstering influence.

Wheat futures, opening strong at Winnipeg and Chicago, lost a large part of their advance. In bonds U. S. governments and the majority of foreign dollar loans weakened. Securities at London, Amsterdam and Paris took a dive in the forenoon but steadied eventually.

Prominent on the turn-around on the home exchange were Bethlehem Steel, Youngstown Sheet, General Motors, Montgomery Ward, Goodrich, Western Union, Anaconda, Southern Pacific and Union Pacific.

Down the greater part of the time were Eastman Kodak, Union Carbide, American Telephone, U. S. Gypsum, Douglas Aircraft, American Smelting and Phelps Dodge.

59,000 Americans Told to Come Home

(By The Associated Press)
Fifty-nine thousand Americans known to be in the countries most likely to be affected by any European conflict have been advised by state department officials to come on home—along with unknown thousands of tourists.

The 2,569 listed as residing permanently or semi-permanently in Poland and the 28 in Danzig were among the first to be told it was dangerous to stay.

The situation in other countries:

Great Britain, 10,522—American residents—Ambassador Joseph P. Kennedy said "a day or two" might bring inconvenience, and to stay longer might mean "danger."

France, 12,964—Those with "no compelling reason to continue their sojourn" advised to leave.

Germany, 5,781—Embassy says "it is desirable to leave."

Italy, 23,330—Consulate advises leaving if there is no particular reason for staying.

The advice to leave Germany applies also to the 3,793 American citizens listed in what was Czechoslovakia.

In addition to the listed Americans there, Europe was the destination of an unknown but large percentage of the 47,486 persons carrying passports issued in the last three months.

Redeem Rate Raised

London, Aug. 24 (AP)—The Bank of England's redeemer rate was raised from two to four per cent today amidst growing European tension. The immediate effect of the rate boost was to restrict commercial credits and thus make more capital available to the government for emergency purposes.

'ENGLAND EXPECTS EVERY MAN TO DO HIS DUTY'

All Europe is calling men to the colors in the new war crisis, and here a British sergeant-major lines up a group of recruits in London even as Germany and Russia formally undertook a non-aggression agreement. These youngsters remembered the recruiting slogan of the last war and immediately applied at recruiting stations.

U. S. AMBASSADOR CHECKS WAR SITUATION

Seven Defendants Face City Judge

Seven cases were brought to the attention of Judge Matthew V. Cahill in police court this morning, and all were disposed of at that time.

Peter Dugan, 53, of Green street, was arrested by Peter DeKoskie, who charged Dugan with disorderly conduct. Dugan was also arrested by Officer Barnham on a charge of public intoxication last night. Judge Cahill imposed a fine of $2 on the disorderly conduct charge and $3 on the intoxication charge.

Michael Encor, 45, of New York city, arrested for public intoxication on Broadway, had his hearing adjourned until later.

John Warren, 34, of West Hurley, charged with public intoxication on Washington avenue, was fined $3.

Robert Cummings, 44, of 46 Chambers street, charged with disorderly conduct in using loud language on West Strand, was given a suspended sentence.

John Manning, 41, of New York, Thomas McGillan, 40, of Buffalo, and Frank McCarthy, 48, of New York, charged with trespassing on railroad property, were fined $1 each. They told the court they were on the way to Germantown where a job awaited them.

Roosevelt Makes Appeal to Italy

the past generation.

We in America having welded a homogeneous nation out of many nationalities, often find it difficult to visualize the animosities which so often have created crisis among nations of Europe which are smaller than ours in population and in territory, but we accept the fact that these nations have an absolute right to maintain their national independence if they so desire. If that be sound doctrine then it must apply to the weaker nations as well as to the stronger.

Acceptance Means Peace

Acceptance of this means peace, because fear of aggression ends. The alternative which means of necessity efforts by the strong to dominate the weak, will lead not only to war, but to long future years of aggression on the part of victors and to rebellion on the part of the vanquished. So history teaches us.

On April fourteenth last I suggested in essence an understanding that no armed forces should attack or invade the territory of any other independent nation, and that this being assured, discussions be undertaken to seek progressive relief from the burden of armaments and to open avenues of international trade including sources of raw materials necessary to the peaceful economic life of each nation.

I said that in these discussions the United States would gladly take part. And such peaceful conversations would make it wholly possible for governments other than the United States to enter into peaceful discussions of political or territorial problems in which they were directly concerned.

Were it possible for Your Majesty's government to formulate proposals for a pacific solution of the present crisis along these lines you are assured of the earnest sympathy of the United States.

The government of Italy and the United States can today advance those ideals of Christianity which of late seem so often to have been obscured.

The unheard voices of countless millions of human beings ask that the shall not be vainly sacrificed again.

Britain Will Go To War for Poland

ridor) and Polish upper Silesia—

all once-German.

Submission of what then would be left of Poland to the status of a German protectorate.

Britain's parliament assembled for an emergency defense session in a situation so acute that Ambassador Joseph Kennedy advised all American tourists to sail for home at once.

Prime Minister Chamberlain called a special meeting of the cabinet. Insurance rates on shipping mounted; the Bank of England's rediscount rate was doubled to 4 per cent.

Despite the thunderbolt of the German-Russian pledges, both Britain and France prepared to back up their promise to fight the moment Poland feels she must shed blood to save her independence.

France mobilized a fifth class of reservists, adding about 150,000 troops to the men already under arms.

As emergency forces sped to France's frontiers facing Germany and Italy, Premier Daladier planned to form a national union government, uniting all factions in France.

Britain and France saw the agreement between Germany and Russia as the death warrant for their efforts to align Russia in the British-French front.

The military missions of both nations—which had been in Moscow to help with negotiations that had stretched over four months—prepared to go home.

Their decision was reached after German Foreign Minister Joachim von Ribbentrop took off by airplane for Germany to report to Hitler on his swift diplomatic achievement.

Poland, with nearly 1,000,000 men already under arms, calmly girded her defenses. Defense preparations were made methodically throughout the nation.

Anti-aircraft guns were manned in big cities. Buses were being commandeered in Paris and London for troop transport if necessary. The order to prepare for air raid blackouts at a moment's notice has been made.

U. S. Embassies in Paris, Berlin and London issued what were considered unequivocal orders for all Americans to leave for the United States as soon as possible.

Italians viewed the tension with increasing concern, but hopes still were held in Rome that a peaceful settlement might be arranged.

Officer Dropped By Board's Vote

The suspension of George Griffin, of Hunter street, as a special policeman was made permanent Wednesday evening at a special meeting of the police board.

Walton McDougough, who has been serving for some years as a special policeman during the summer months, was assigned to fill Griffin's duties.

The police board made no comment for publication at the close of the meeting. It is said, however, that Griffin was suspended for failing to go to the aid of a brother officer in making an arrest.

The charge was made by one of the police sergeants and a policeman and was corroborated at a hearing before the board by three other members of the police department.

Sales in dollars of independent retail apparel stores in 27 states declined nine per cent in 1938 compared with 1937, reports the Department of Commerce.

VIGIL ON THE DOORSTEP—Watchfully Laddie eyes strangers who come near his new playmate, Lonnana, a lamb adopted by the 8-year-old collic. Dr. Richard Adams of Memphis owns both.

FEATHERS FLY IN CARDINAL RACE—Humbling the league-leading Cincinnati Reds by a clean sweep of their series, the jubilant St. Louis Cardinals began to talk about a National league pennant, and they gave credit to this trio of youthful pitchers: (l. to r.) Bob Bowman, Thomas Sunkel, Morton Cooper. But Brooklyn's Dodgers threw gloom into the camp by humbling Cards 7-1.

GRIT AND PETE GRAY—Hero to all the baseball fans of the Bay Parkways, a N. Y. City semi-pro team, is Centerfielder Pete Gray, 23, who lost his arm 17 years ago in an auto accident. Pete comes from Wilkes-Barre, Pa., passed up a mine colliery watchman's job to try his luck at baseball. He catches fly and ground balls readily, gets a ball away with great speed.

LOOKOUT—Aloft a London hotel, Miriam Verne, Pittsburgh dancer whose technique delighted Hitler, scans the horizon and, incidentally, shows the legs that won her fame. Since winning favor with Hitler, she's had some "nasty letters," she says.

PRETTY SOFT FOR NO. 5—While four of her co-cyclists furnish the motive power, the fifth girl does the steering in this double tandem at Ostia, Italy. The machine is two single bikes hooked to a tandem, with an extra seat.

OLYMPICS—A new uniform has been designed for the Olympic officials, such as this one seen at Garmisch-Partenkirchen, Germany, where the 1940 winter Olympics are scheduled. Last June Hitler approved improvements for this sports site in the Bavarian mountains.

WATCH THE BIRDIE!—White-haired Charles Tremear, 74, of Detroit, didn't really need to tell French Ambassador Rene de Saint-Quentin to "watch the birdie" when the latter had his picture taken in N. Y. after the manner developed 100 years ago by Louis Daguerre, father of modern photography. Occasion was 100th anniversary of daguerrotypin. Exposure 18 seconds.

BRITISH EDEN—Mimic warfare engages Anthony Eden, former foreign secretary, a major with an English territorial unit.

KINGLY—Though he looks like a young collegian, this is actually King Leopold of Belgium, 37, who called the foreign ministers of the Netherlands, Luxembourg, Sweden, Norway, Denmark and Finland to Brussels to draft a plea for peace.

RUNS IN THE FAMILY—Since 1875 babies in the Jacobs family at Memphis have used this baby bed, and three-month-old Carol Eiseman is adhering to family tradition, whether she knows it or not. Dr. Arthur G. Jacobs (above) was the first occupant; his granddaughter, Carol, is the most recent. All told, 11 babies have cooed in this bed, which is something of a record.

WANTED: A JUNIOR SIZE—The problem of a ham bone seems too much for 11-month-old Aubrey Reginald, shown pondering the proper technique at a Mount Tabor Methodist church dinner in Washington, D. C. She soon got some help.

DRIVE—"Bowl of rice" parties to raise funds for civilian relief in China are planned for fall drive, of which Col. Theodore Roosevelt, Jr., (above) is the directing chairman.

NIMBLE—So fast are the fingers of Grace Phelan of Elms, Pa., that she's called the world's amateur champion typist. She typed 133 words a minute in New York contest.

CAMOUFLAGE DOESN'T HIDE ITS MISSION—Increasing tension in Europe emphasizes the importance England attaches to the drill of her Wellington heavy bombers, such as this, flying over the North Sea. Some 1,300 aircraft engaged in maneuvers.

DEATH HELPS LAUNCH CARRIER—One person died and a score were hurt when Britain's aircraft carrier, Formidable (above), slid down ways prematurely at Belfast, Ire., launching.

Winner of a student popularity poll for the prettiest 1939 girl graduate at the Albany Business College, is blonde and hazel-eyed Alice Hennessy, above, of Hudson, N. Y. Miss Hennessy, who was also crowned Carnival Queen at ABC, was selected by the students as the "prettiest and most popular." She is five feet five. As a reward for her record, she was given a position in the college office following commencement.

Loughran Holds Final Exercises

A very large crowd witnessed Loughran Park's last Community Night of the season last night when children of the playground, under the direction of Mr. Embree, entertained with a real old fashioned minstrel.

Blackened up and dressed in true minstrel fashion, the group entertained the audience with an unusually fine performance. Included in the program was a tap dance by Blanche Glass and Corinne Shader; songs by Patsy Hyatt and the entire group; harmonica selections by Frank Norton, Ken Gaffney and Mr. Embree; selections by Gordon Craig, Jr., and his orchestra.

The highlight of the program was an old fashioned square dance put on by Carol Mazzuca, Mabel Sayers, Dot Seward, Helen Saunders, Wanda Heins, Jim Haggerty, Bill Leakey, Ken Gaffney and Frank Embree.

The playground directors, Evelyn Winfield and Mike Weiner, thanked Mr. Embree for the fine cooperation and assistance he has given them throughout the season, and also thanked Henry Milonig, Jr., Elliot Clark and David Freer for their assistance at community night programs.

The program was concluded with several reels of talking pictures.

Salad Is Blamed Albany, N. Y., Aug. 24 (AP)—The State Health Department blamed a salad today for causing 80 cases of septic sore throat in a boys' camp in the town of Deer Park, Orange county. "The source of contamination of the salad is as yet undetermined," health officials said, "But it is believed that an infected food handler was in all probability responsible." Most of the cases were relatively mild.
